Choice Theory® is the universal system for empowering individuals and improving relationships. Choice Theory® is based on the simple premise that every individual only has the power to control themselves and has limited power to control others. Applying Choice Theory allows one to take responsibility for one's own life and at the same time, withdraw from attempting to direct other people's decisions and lives. Individuals are empowered to take responsibility for their choices and support others in taking ownership of their choices.

Reality Therapy is the method of counseling Dr. William Glasser began teaching in 1965. It is firmly based on Choice Theory and provides the structure for clients to take control of their lives. It is a communication skill that can benefit anyone who lives and works with other people, regardless of the culture or nature of their relationships. It helps people connect with other people by focusing on present behavior. It is a model for personal improvement and self-reflection. Research has shown that this model benefits leaders, teachers, families, and co-workers.

Lead Management A leadership model for those in a position of authority. It works to improve the system to create an atmosphere where people can make responsible decisions and achieve quality work. A CT leader invites workers to continually self-evaluate and collaborate to solve problems and maintain trust and competence.
